Klingemann wanderte 1845 aus

Von Stefan Weigang (2020)

Johann Heinrich Klingemann wurde am 28.6.1800 in Luttmersen geboren.

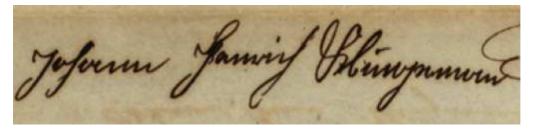

Seine Eltern sind der (pensionierte) Feuerwerker Gerhard Philipp Klingemann aus Luttmersen, geb. 3.4.1745 in Luttmersen, und dessen zweiter Ehefrau Catharina Maria, geb. Frerking, geb. 13.3.1768 in Helstorf. Verheiratet am 25.6.1786.

Johann Heinrich war Bauer und Zimmermann bzw. Tischler – sicher ein begehrter Beruf in der "Neuen Heimat" jenseits des Atlantiks.

Johann Heinrich Klingemann heiratete in ersten Ehe am 9.5.1827 die Katharina Louise Denecke aus Negenborn, Tochter von Altenteilers Johann Heinrich Denecke und Anna Engel Plumhof

geb. am 10.5.1801. Aus der Ehe stammt die Tochter Henriette. Katharina Louise starb am 10.2.1843:

Am 26.5.1843 ging Klingemann mit Katharina Dorothea Möller aus Abbensen die zweite Ehe ein. Sie war Tochter des Anbauers Hans Heinrich Möller und der Marie Uelschen in Abbensen Nr. 30.

Mit ihr und vier Kindern wanderte Klingemann 1845 über Bremen aus und erreichte an Bord der "Weser" am 27. November den Hafen Galveston, Texas. Die Familie ließ sich inder Gegend um New Braunfels, Comal Co., Texas, nieder.

"At first, most of his income was from carpentry, and he did continue to make most, if not all, of the furniture that was needed by his family and even his grandchildren. By the time he was 60 however, he was listed as a 'Farmer' and lived on property outside of town. He did well enough in his pursuits that he was able to leave a large herd of purebred cattle to his children when he died. (At that time, purebred cattle were quite rare)."

"Zuerst verdiente er sein Einkommen hauptsächlich mit Tischlerei, und er stellte weiterhin den größten Teil, wenn nicht sogar alle Möbel her, die seine Familie und sogar seine Enkelkinder benötigten. Als er 60 Jahre alt war, wurde er jedoch als "Landwirt" eingetragen und lebte auf einem Grundstück außerhalb der Stadt. Es ging ihm so gut, dass er seinen Kindern eine große Herde reinrassiger Rinder hinterlassen konnte, als er starb. (Zu dieser Zeit waren reinrassige Rinder ziemlich selten)."
